DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
  - I. Claims 1-25 are drawn to a microplate, classified in class 422, subclass 58.
  - II. Claim 26 is drawn to a process of generating a negative pressure on the product to perform imaging and printing of a sample, classified in class 435, subclass 286.6.
  - III. Claims 27-30 are drawn to a process of generating positive and negative pressure on the product to mix a sample, classified in class 436 subclass 518.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

2. Inventions II and III are unrelated and independent. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case, the different inventions, II and III, they have different modes of operation. For example, invention II calls for the use of generating a negative pressure in the orifices to hold the array formation areas against the top surface of the fixture so that functions of printing, imaging, or controlling the temperature of a sample can be performed. Whereas Invention III does not call for the methods contained in Invention II. For example, Invention III calls for the use of positive and negative pressures in the orifices to move the array formation areas up and down to mix a sample. In addition, Invention III calls for the biorecognition materials and the sample to be labeled.

3. Inventions I and (II-III) are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case, the apparatus of invention I may be used for other different processes. For example, invention I can be used to store cellular components for future experiments. Invention I can also be used for agglutination assays. Further, it can be utilized in either patentability distinct methods of invention II or invention III.

4. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper. Please note that classifications in the restriction are illustrative only and do not represent all the classes and subclasses which must be searched for each invention; nor is the search limited to issued US patents, but rather includes foreign patents and applications as well as literature searches.

5. A telephone call was made to D. David Hill on 2/21/02 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

Art Unit: 1641

6 Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

7. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
